ARRANGEMENTS FOR SECOND CZECHOSLOVAK CONFERENCE OF DEFENDERS OF PEACE

On 14 November 1952, a plenary session of the Czechoslovak Committee of the Defenders of Peace was held in Prague. Dr A. Horak presided over the meeting, at which the final arrangements for the second conference were made.

The need for this conference was outlined by Dr Horak, who said it was necessary to present to the Czechoslovak people the results of the International Peace Congress, less than a month away.

The meeting unanimously approved the calling of the conference. The formal call was read by the bishop of the Czechoslovak Church, Dr M. Novak. The conference is to be held in Prague on 17 and 18 January 1953.

This conference, in addition to evaluating the work for peace and the accomplishments of the past year, will award the Czechoslovak Peace Prizes for 1952.

The plenum instructed all kraj and okres committees to select their delegates at local elections, to be held before 7 December. In addition, they are to publicize the conference, obtain active workers for it, and complete all preparations for the closing of the peace prize competitions on 31 December 1952.
